NEW ZENITH FREPOWER

For Homes
Without Electricity

In developing a line of radios for the farm that in every way measures up in performance and quality with the finest electric city sets, Zenith engineers have not overlooked a single feature or advancement that makes for better performance.

In addition to providing economical Farm and summer home radios of superb quality, Zenith has effected a special arrangement with the manufacturers of the Wincharger, so that every owner of a Zenith Farm Radio can reduce his operating power cost to 50 cents a year for 10 hours radio enjoyment every day. This means no more dry A, B or C batteries to buy. No more dead storage batteries to take out and recharge. Through this special arrangement the purchaser of any Zenith Farm radio can buy the $44.50 De-Luxe Wincharger for only $15.00—or the $29.50 Utility Wincharger for only $10.00. The Wincharger (Frepower) removes the last objection to battery operated radio.

MOKENA TO VOTE ON $3,000 BOND ISSUE

CALL SPECIAL ELECTION ON DECEMBER 19

Next Thursday will be a special day for Mokena, for on that day the village voters will be called upon to vote for or against the floating of a $3,000.00 bond issue to pay for debts incurred in the making of needed street improvements last summer. The bond issue is of such a small amount that the amount paid off each year will not be noticeable in the local taxes.

It is important that this bond issue passes if more improvements are expected to be made.

Every voter should vote on this vital issue next Thursday, December 19th. The election will be held in the Mokena village hall. The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The early train commuters will be given ample time to cast their votes before going to their work.

The bonds in question if the election carries will run for a period of six years.

Tinley Couple Celebrate 14th Anniversary

On Tuesday of this week Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bettenhausen of Tinley Park of hardware fame, rounded out 14 happy and continuous years of nuptial bliss.

During this span of delightful association and companionship they have been blessed with 4 beautiful children of whom they are justly proud.

As a wife and a mother, Ruth is certainly to be congratulated for a job well done. Conducting her home and lending a mother's care to her children she can still be seen day after day helping and working, by the side of her husband, in the management of their business. Her cheerful disposition, her willing spirit and her ever present happy smile seems to make light a task which to some would be a heavy burden.

The steady and untiring efforts of this couple affords a pleasure to behold as they untie life's knotty problems with seeming simplicity.

Good luck and best wishes, Ruth and Henry.

May the years to come be crowned with the same serene and complacent path to achievement and happiness.

Fellowship Club To Hold Party

The Fellowship Club of Mokena will sponsor a bunco and card party on Wednesday evening, Dec. 18 in the building formerly occupied by the United Unemployed. Refreshments will be served.

Dairymen To Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Mokena, Frankfort local of the Pure Milk Association will be held next Tuesday evening, December 17 at 7:30 p. m. in the St. John Evangelical church parlors in Mokena.

Election of officers for the coming year will take place promptly at 7:30. John Case, President of the Association will be the speaker of the evening. An oyster supper will be served at the close of the meeting.

Tinley Garden Club Making Plans For Christmas

By Mrs. Fred Goebel, Pub. Ch.

The Tinley Park Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. F. Baldwin on Thursday Nov. 21 with twenty-three members being present.

Plans for Christmas were discussed. The Plant, Fruit and Flower Guild would like donations from the different Garden Clubs. The Club donated 35 to the school for candy for the children.

Mrs. J. W. Klepper presented each member with a new booklet of by-laws, and the club thanked her for her work in making all of these booklets, as it meant many hours of tedious work.

The hostess served delicious cake and coffee after the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Wm. Funk Thursday Dec. 19. Will the members make an effort to be there by two o'clock and also do not forget your table decorations.

Mrs. Elsie Koehler, chairman of the Flower Guild makes the following announcement: As in former years, the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will sponsor a Xmas collection which will be held on Friday Dec. 20. The Tinley Park Garden Club is a member of this Guild and sincerely hopes that not only the members of the club, but this community, will find it possible to respond with the same splendid spirit which marked our collection last year.

You may be sure that the recipients of your gifts—invalids, orphans, shut-ins, sufferers in hospitals and the underprivileged who are cared for by the settlements and by the visiting nurses association—will more than appreciate your generosity. For many of them, it will be the only touch of Christmas cheer that they will have on that Day of Days.

Following is a suggested list of various articles which might be sent in: Bedside bags (made out of ten pound sugar bags and containing such items as: mirror, handkerchiefs, powder, etc., bacon grease, candy, nuts, cards, such as playing cards, birthday cards etc.

Games—card games, sport games etc. Fruit—particularly apples and oranges. Fruit juices—pineapple, grape and tomato jams and jellies. Magazines and books. Flower containers. Toys—Dolls, vanity cases, scrap books, small mechanical contrivances, etc.

Mrs. Koehler would like to have donations by Dec. 18 at the latest.

They should be taken to her home at 17118, 67th Court, Tinley Park, or get in touch with her and she will be glad to call for same.

The Tinley Park Garden Club will more than appreciate your generosity. You know Xmas will be a happier one with the knowledge that you have helped to bring holiday cheer into the lives of those who are less fortunate.

Resident of Hall 6 Years Taken To County Farm

Henry Johansen who has been making his home in the Frankfort village hall for the past six years, was taken to the Will County Farm the past week upon the recommendation of Mayor George Sangmeister. Mr. Johansen is over 70 years old and has no immediate relatives in this section.

Will Lay Water Mains Next Week

Laying of the first unit of water mains of the new circulating water system in Mokena will begin Monday and will be laid from the Mokena public school property south on Nietherham street to connect with the water main on Front street. The water pipe arrived Wednesday. The work being done is a WPA project.

Coach To Be Used For A Church

The railroad coach which was set out at Mokena by the Rock Island railroad for use as a church by the Catholic parish at Lincoln Estates, has been removed from the railroad trucks and placed on rubber tired moving trucks and will be hauled over the Wolf Road to the Lincoln highway and then to the Lincoln Estates soon as the permit is received from the state highway department to move the coach over the paved highways.

STROKE PROVES FATAL TO MRS. F. A. RYTHER

Mrs. F. A. Ryther, aged 79 years, who has been staying with her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Moriarty in Mokena, died at the latter's home last Saturday morning at 8:50 o'clock. She had been confined to bed for ten days following a stroke.

Matilda Ryther was born in England in 1856 and came to the United States in 1861. She was united in marriage with Thomas Fulton in 1877. Following Mr. Fulton's death she was united in marriage in 1912 with F. A. Ryther.

The deceased's only daughter Winnifred died 25 years ago.

Surviving are her husband, F. A. Ryther, two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Moriarty of Mokena, Mrs. Sadie Barber of Florida and one brother Sam Fulton of Joliet.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Moriarty home with burial in the Montgomery mausoleum near Aurora, Ill.

Notice

Thru a mechanical duplication error the entire 32,000 series of trade coupons issued by The Mokena Men's Association has been declared void. The business men are asking all those who hold any number in the 32,000 series to surrender these coupons and new coupons will be issued in their place. The voided coupons can be brought to the business places or the McGovney real estate office Saturday night to be exchanged for new coupons.

Sunshine 4-H Club Guests of Inter. Harvester Co.

The Sunshine 4-H Club with their leader, Mrs. Hilda Kampe and her son Arthur, through the cooperation of Mr. John Boyer of Tinley Park, were guests of the International Harvester Co., in Chicago December 4.

They left Tinley Park on the 7:05 a. m. Rock Island train and arrived at the Auditorium Hotel in Chicago about an hour later, where they met and joined 1500 other 4-H Club boys and girls who had gathered from forty-four different states.

From the hotel they were conducted on a tour through the International Tractor factory. What was seen here was almost beyond human understanding.

The next visit was through the Twine mill which was also very interesting. Here a group picture was taken. Here also was awaiting a big surprise for the group, for at noon they were guests of the Harvester Co., at a banquet. This was very welcome for after having walked miles and miles, a good appetite was created and a rest from walking was refreshing.

At this banquet they met all the officers of the company among which was Mr. Harold McCormick and also Mr. J. N. Noble who is president and national leader of all the 4-H Clubs.

Entertainment at this banquet was furnished by nationally known radio stars as: The Mills Brothers, The Morine Sisters, and Jack Holden as master-of-ceremonies from W. L. S.

As the group left the banquet hall in the McCormick building each was presented a souvenir which will also be a treasured keepsake from the International Harvester Co.

The next stop on the tour list was the Stock Show where they arrived at two o'clock. Here Mr. Boyer conducted them to the most interesting places and was intensely enjoyed by each one.

Mr. Boyer has been in the employ of this company for over 40 years, and is most respected. He is a man of an understanding heart. The Sunshine Club wishes him many more useful years with this great company.

Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you.

Anyone who wishes to join the Sunshine 4-H Club may do so by getting in touch with their leader, Mrs. Kampe and then may also enjoy the pleasures and thrills of this lovely work.

"We draw a circle and we will take you in", says Mrs. Kampe.

Those who attended this Congress of National 4-H Club, besides their leader and her son were: The Misses Elsie and Helen Feigel, Hilda Stelter, Mildred Mallen, Edna Steinborn, Bernilda Stucky and Sylvia Feigel and Rose Bormet.

Miss Winifred Boddeker acted as

NEW V. F. W. POST TO BE INSTALLED

A new Veterans of Foreign Wars Post has been organized at New Lenox under the supervision of Past Commander Wm. Bollig, Commander H. Schelling and H. Worth of Cantigny Post No. 367 of Joliet.

There are a number of veterans in the New Lenox territory and they have long felt the need of a Post of their own.

This coming Sunday afternoon a public installation of the officers will be held in the Colonial Hall beginning at 3 p. m. The installation will be in charge of Cantigny Post of the V. F. W., will be present.

Invitations have been mailed out to a number of nearby posts. The New Lenox veterans feel very grateful toward Cantigny Post 367 of Joliet for the way they have conducted the work. They are a fine lot of men.

The officers to be installed are as follows:

Commander, M. Korach.
Sen. Vice Com. I. B. Stephens.
Junior Vice Com. Joseph Shea.
Chaplain, Fred Scott.
Quartermaster, Geo. Todhunter.
Post Advocate, Glen Peterson.
Trustees, Ellis O'Daniel, Warren McIntyre, James Tauber.

Any veterans who have served on foreign soil are eligible for membership in this organization. The New Lenox Post extends an invitation to all those who are eligible to be present Dec. 15th to enter their names on the charter list.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, an organization founded in 1899 and composed of the honorably discharged men who have served in the army, navy and marine corps of the United States of America on foreign shores or in hostile waters in any war, campaign or expedition recognized by Congress with campaign badge or service clasp.

Its objectives are briefly embodied in the words of Abraham Lincoln "to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and orphan."

Mokena Shows Improvement

August Hentsch, operator of the Mokena village water works is in receipt of a letter from E. S. Clark, bacteriologist of the Sanitary Engineering Laboratories at Springfield stating that he had examined the four samples of water Mr. Hentsch sent in on December and found some contamination was present in the first two samples out of four samples of water submitted, but none appeared in the last two samples. These results, says Mr. Clark confirms his previous opinion of November 14 that the water supply is subject to intermittent contamination.

Tinley Firemen To Hold Masquerade

The Tinley Park Volunteer Fire Department members will sponsor their annual prize masquerade at the Saenger hall in Tinley Park on Saturday night, January 18th.

Parents Asked To Warn Children

The superintendent of safety of the WPA has asked that the parents of Mokena warn their children to remain away from the open ditches along the village streets while the village water main extension work is going on.

Orland Legion Post Xmas Dance

The Orland Park Legion Post will sponsor a Christmas dance at Goodings Grove hall this Saturday night. The boys invite everyone to come for a good time.

Pinochle Party At Green Tavern

James Sherwood is sponsoring a public pinochle party at the Green Tavern in New Lenox Friday night, December 20th. Prizes will be given. Everyone invited.

guide on this tour. The girl's motto is "Make the Best, Better."

Frankfort Will Gather Around Community Christmas Tree

Thru the efforts of Mayor George Sangmeister, and with the cooperation of the business men of the community, Frankfort will observe a community Christmas program on Saturday evening of this week.

A 15-foot Xmas tree is being erected in the vacant lot east of the Scheer & Stellwagen store. The tree will be decorated and will be lit with 50 colored electric lights of 25 watts each.

The program is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m. The Frankfort school band will play and the pupils of the Frankfort public school will take part in the program as well as the pastors of the local churches.

Old favorite Christmas carols and hymns will be on the program for community singing. Everyone is invited and the parents are especially invited to bring the children to see Santa Claus.

Santa Claus To Make Personal Appearance

The good news has just been received that though Santa is a very busy person at this season, he will make a personal appearance at the jolly Christmas party to be given at the Mokena school auditorium, Friday evening, December 20.

Santa promises to have candy for every child attending and the school children are preparing to entertain the grown-ups with a big hour-and-a-half party and see how happy you will make the teachers and children.

Everyone is cordially invited to this annual party, which starts off the Christmas season in this community with a great feeling of good cheer and friendliness.

There will be no admittance charge but a free will offering will be taken.

Mokena Post Mistress Stresse Early Mailing

The necessity for early mailing should be constantly and vividly stressed during this pre-Christmas period.

The public should realize the importance of mailing their Christmas cards and parcels sufficiently early to insure their arrival at post office destination not later than Tuesday morning December 24.

This will allow delivery to addresses before Christmas Day.

Those mailing parcels should be sure they are wrapped and tied securely.

TO PUT ON A SPECIAL XMAS STAGE SHOW

On Saturday night, December 21, the regular show conducted at the Tinley Park school auditorium will be slightly changed.

There will be no amateur vaudeville talent on that night.

In its place, to conform with the Xmas spirit of the week, the Tinley Park Businessmen have obtained a special stage show.

The theme of the production is planned as more or less of a surprise, so we cannot divulge more information.

The men in charge of this performance are bending every effort to give you fine and worthy entertainment.

There will be no increase in admission for this night.

The same admission of 15c for adults and 10c for children will prevail.

Everybody come.

It will be one grand evening of Xmas cheer and spirit.

The usual movies and big stage show.

Cantata To Be Given at St. John's

A Christmas cantata entitled "The Glory Song" will be presented at 7:45 p. m., Sunday, December 15 in the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena. The public is cordially invited. Come bring your friends.

V. F. W. Will Sponsor Dance

The William Martin Post No. 725 of the V. F. W. will give a dance Saturday evening December 28 in the Frankfort hall. Elphick's orchestra will furnish the music. Everyone is invited.

Business Men to Meet

The Mokena Business Men's Association will meet December 16th in the Mokena school auditorium. Election of officers will be held. All the members of the Association are urged to be present. The meeting will begin at eight o'clock.

The First Presbyterian church of Bloomington celebrated the one hundred and second anniversary of its founding.

Walter Cooper, fifty years old, farmer, residing two miles north of Mokena, was instantly killed by accidental discharge of his shotgun while rabbit hunting.

The University of Chicago chapter of the National Student league, a communist organization, was barred from the campus by William E. Scott, dean of students, for "consistently flouting university regulations."

G. J. Johnson of Paxton has purchased five parcels of land, consisting of 978 acres near Piper City for $105,000. The land was sold in a bankruptcy sale of J. K. Montelius of Piper City.

Paul Perkins, fifty-five, Hoopston farm laborer, who came from Atlanta, Ind., died at Danville hospital shortly after being struck by a hit and run driver when he was walking on a highway.

Without making a formal demand to WPA authorities, about 150 men employed on two relief projects in Pekin quit work. It was learned that the men want an increase from $44 to $55 per month.

A WPA recreation project employing seven persons was abruptly discontinued at Chester after protests from citizens. The objectors asserted the seven, selected from the relief rolls to supervise play for school children, were incompetent and the $380 monthly pay roll for the group was excessive.

Governor Horner, visiting Greene, Jersey, Calhoun, and Madison counties, paid tribute to Carrollton to the memory of the late Henry T. Rainey. The governor inspected a site for a proposed Rainey memorial and then placed a wreath on the grave of the veteran speaker of the national house of representatives.

Governor Horner appointed three delegates to represent Illinois at the annual meeting of the National Association of State Tax Administrators to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., December 2 and 3. They are John C. Martin, chairman of the state tax commission; Prof. S. E. Leland, commission member, and Paul J. Wimsey.

Because a soviet divorce which her husband obtained in Russia by merely signing his name in a book was not considered valid in the United States, Frances P. Carr appeared before Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fisher in Rockford and was awarded a divorce from Robert Spencer Carr, who left there four years ago to become a Soviet employee.

Albert A. Rubnitz, head of the Joliet News agency and publisher of the Spectator, a Joliet weekly paper, died in St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet following an operation. He was forty-three years old. Mr. Rubnitz started life as a newsboy in Milwaukee and had owned the weekly paper for the last three years. He was a World war veteran, serving overseas.

Certain members of the First Christian church of York township, Carroll county, petitioned Judge Albert Manus of the Circuit court to grant an injunction against Rev. David E. Todd, pastor, and the board of trustees, for continuing certain practices and preachings, which the plaintiffs allege are not in accordance with the fundamental principles of their church.

Harve Tutlock, fifty-eight, a Westfield filling station operator, was killed and six other persons, including five high school students, were injured in a motoring collision on state route 16, a half mile west of Charleston. Tutlock was riding with B. H. Beasley of Westfield, who suffered minor injuries. Occupants of the second machine were Charles Fudge, fifteen; Maxine Doty, eighteen; Harold Gilliste, nineteen; Robert Cottingham and Maurice Marks.

Charles Augustus Purdunn of Marshall died at his home, ending a long career of public service to his state and town. He was eighty-one years old and had been in failing health for a year. Mr. Purdunn served three terms in the legislature as representative from that district, now the Thirty-eighth. For 12 years he was a member of the board of pardons and paroles, and for a like term served on the civil service commission, eight years as chairman.

What effect air conditioning has on the body will be the subject of a three year study by H. C. Peters at the Illinois Research and Educational hospital, Chicago, it was announced by A. L. Bowen, director of the department of public welfare. Mr. Peters, who has completed work for a Ph. D. degree in physiology at the University of Illinois college of medicine, was granted the fellowship by the committee on research of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers and the University college of medicine.

Rockford college announces receipt of a gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Catharine Vaughn McCulloch of Evanston. The gift is to be applied to the endowment of the Jane Addams professorship of sociology and social work. This gift virtually completes the endowment for this chair.

Munroe Van Guden, twenty-one, Evanston, a former student of the University of Illinois, was killed and his companion, George Clifford, twenty-two years old, Oak Park, critically injured when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a freight train on the Indiana Harbor Belt Line.

Chicago School Children Must Salute Flag

THE board of education of Chicago adopted a resolution that the pupils in all the city's schools must salute the American flag each day. This scene is in the Ogden school, where the children are of many nationalities.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HUNTER LOSES HIS TEMPER

THE hunter, hidden near the pond of Paddy the Beaver, chuckled silently. That is to say, he laughed without making any sound. He had watched Mr. and Mrs. Quack feeding along the edge of the pond down towards Paddy's dam, behind the end of which Reddy Fox had been hidden. Reddy had been waiting for those Ducks just as the hunter himself was waiting for Lightfoot the Deer. Then along came Sammy Jay and spied Reddy Fox. At once he had begun to scream at the top of his lungs, "Thief! Thief! Thief!" Mr. and Mrs. Quack had understood him perfectly. They swam out to the middle of the pond while Reddy Fox, knowing that it was useless to stay longer with Sammy Jay about, had snarled angrily and then taken himself off through the Green Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Quack Called Their Thanks to Sammy.

The hunter thought it a great joke on Reddy. To tell the truth, he was very much pleased. He wanted those Ducks himself. He suspected that they would stay in that little pond for some days, and he planned to return there and shoot them after he had got Lightfoot the Deer. He wanted to get Lightfoot first, and he knew that to shoot at anything else might spoil his chance of getting a shot at Lightfoot.

"Sammy Jay did me a good turn," thought the hunter, "although he doesn't know it. Reddy Fox certainly would have caught one of those Ducks had Sammy not come along just when he did. It would have been a shame to have one of them caught by that fox. I mean to get one and, I hope, both of them myself."

Now when you come to think of it, it would have been a far greater shame for the hunter to have killed Mr. and Mrs. Quack than for Reddy Fox to have done so. Reddy was hunting them because he was hungry. The hunter would have shot them for sport. He didn't need them. He had plenty of other food. Reddy Fox never kills just for the pleasure of killing.

So the hunter continued to sit in his hiding place with very friendly feelings for Sammy Jay. Sammy watched Reddy Fox disappear and then flew over to that side of the pond where the hunter was. Mr. and Mrs. Quack called their thanks to Sammy, to which he replied that he had done no more for them than he would do for anybody, or than they would have done for him.

For some time Sammy sat quietly in the top of the tree, but all the time his sharp eyes were very busy. By and by, he spied the hunter sitting on the log. At first he couldn't make out just what it was he was looking at. It didn't move, nevertheless Sammy was suspicious. Presently, he flew over to a tree where he could see better. Right away he spied the terrible gun and he knew just what it was.

Once more he began to yell. "Thief!

Thief! Thief!" at the top of his lungs. It was then that the hunter lost his temper. He knew that, now he had been discovered by Sammy Jay, it was useless to remain there. He was angry clear through. He no longer had a friendly feeling for Sammy Jay.

COOK BOOK

ARTISTRY IN COOKERY

THE cook who really enjoys mixing ingredients as a painter does his colors will find no limit to the delightful dishes which one may originate or enlarge upon with the materials at hand. One must follow a few fundamental principles in cookery, and after that let the imagination soar, for there is no end to inspiration.

After some experience with handling foods, most toothsome dishes may be prepared from bits of leftovers. The cook who wastes nothing, but serves her food in a dainty, appetizing manner, is a real genius and her talents are ever in demand.

It is not always wise to tell all one knows as to the contents of a dish, for some conscientious objectors will refuse to try a made-over dish, or rearranged food.

Now, who will dare to call a steamed pudding a leftover? Yet one may prepare a most tasty one with a few squares of corn bread, a cupful of leftover cocoa, a bit of oatmeal, a few raisins and a couple of egg yolks left from some icing or dessert.

Use the things you have at hand—anyone who knows little about foods can prepare a good meal if the market can be called upon with no regard to expense.

Do you use the half-cupful, more or less, of leftover ice cream in a cake or pudding?

Leftover custard may be used the next day for a pudding sauce.

Accident is often the mother of new things, as the discovery of one woman when making a sponge cake that it was more fetching when the egg yolks were added unbeaten and stirred in to make the cake streaked gold and white in appearance.

MYSTERIOUS CRAYONS

SEVERAL crayons are utilized in this trick. Each crayon is of a different color. The magician distributes the crayons and turns his back. He asks that one crayon be placed in his hand, the others hidden.

This is done. The magician's hands are behind his back; when he faces the spectators, he keeps his hands so he cannot see them. Again turning his back toward the people, he lets them take back the crayon which he is holding. It is hidden with the rest.

Although the wizard has gained no opportunity to glimpse the crayon, he promptly raises his fingertips to his forehead and in a mysterious tone announces the color of the crayon that was used.

The secret is as simple as it is clever. While he turns about, holding the crayon behind him, the magician marks one thumb nail. After the spectators regain the crayon, he raises his hand to his forehead. That action lets him see the color of the mark on the nail.

"I will do the chores, Daughter; you go walk awhile; Trip across the meadows as you used to do; Surely there are roses there to make you smile. That will bring the roses back again to you."

"No, not there, not there, Mother!—here I must abide; Willst are the roses, leaving but the stone. Fields that you have walked, Mother, someone at your side, Now you cannot walk Mother, walk again alone."

"Yonder in the town, Daughter, on the village green, Men and maids are dancing, men and maids are gay; Hurry to the village—you are yet the queen; Take your share of pleasure, pleasure while you may."

"No, I cannot go, Mother, there I cannot go, For they all remember when we both were there. They would give me pity, pity me, I know—That's the hardest burden sorrow has to bear."

"Listen, foolish daughter; him you must forget—Better lost the lover that a maid can lose; Hope is all before us, all behind regret—Life is joy or sorrow always as we choose."

"Life is joy or sorrow? Mother dear, my joy After all was sorrow, though I didn't know. Now, to give me pleasure, sorrow I employ—I can't keep from laughing—it's so funny—so—"

Joy of Life Comes With Consciousness of Doing

The real joy of life has little to do with comfort; it comes from the consciousness of strength to suffer and bear and achieve; it comes from the consciousness that one is doing a man's work and earning a man's wages in the world.

The thrill of the mountain climber as he comes suddenly upon the vision of half a continent spread out before him contains more real joy, more true life, than a year brings to the sluggish comfort-seeker in the valley below; the scholar, as he surveys fields of knowledge opening in broader vistas before him, forgets the days and nights of unbroken study behind him; the great leader in statesmanship, as he notes the steady improvement of opinion towards him, feels a joyous sense of mastery which the memory of years of defeat and misconception does not embitter.

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."—Mrs. Jas. Miller.

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

A FATEFUL CHRISTMAS NIGHT 75 YEARS AGO

Entry of Major Anderson's Command Into Fort Sumter, Christmas Night, 1860. Inset: Maj. Robert Anderson.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

DECEMBER 25, 1860, was one of the most fateful Christmases in the history of the United States. On that night 75 years ago a little force of soldiers stole quietly out of a fort, located on a sandy island outside an Atlantic seaport, entered boats and silently rowed across the water to the shelter of another fort in the middle of the entrance to the harbor. Although their commander had a perfect right to lead his garrison from one fortification to the other, was fraught with the most serious consequences.

For he was Robert Anderson, major of the First artillery of the United States army; the post which he evacuated was Fort Moultrie and the one he entered was Fort Sumter in the harbor of Charleston, S. C. Four months later a shot went screaming across the water of that harbor and when it struck Fort Sumter's brick walls it set 2,000,000 Americans against each other in the greatest civil war in history.

The story of the firing on Fort Sumter, the curtain-raiser to the drama of the War Between the States, is a familiar one to most Americans, for it is found in every school history ever published. But the story of the events on that fateful Christmas night, which led inevitably to the opening of hostilities in April, 1861, is not so well known.

Robert Anderson was a Kentuckian who had been graduated from West Point in 1825. He had served with distinction in two Indian wars—the Black Hawk uprising in Illinois in 1832 and the campaigns against the Seminoles in Florida later—and was promoted to captain in 1841. Subsequently he served as assistant adjutant-general to Gen. Winfield Scott, was severely wounded in the attack on El Molino del Rey in the Mexican war and promoted to major in 1857.

When he took command of the United States military post of Charleston harbor on November 20, 1860, the dispute over slavery between the North and the South had drifted inevitably into the question of the right of a state to secede from the Union and he found himself in the hotbed of the Secession movement—South Carolina. That state's withdrawal from the Union seemed certain and when it did withdraw it was almost a certainty also that the South Carolinians would seize all United States property within the borders of their state. In so far as Anderson was a native of one slave state and connected by marriage with the people of another, it was hoped by some that he would hand over the forts, which had been entrusted to him, to the South Carolinians, and it was feared by others that he would resign his commission and join the Secessionists. But, as later events proved, neither side understood the true character of the man.

Ten days before the South Carolina convention took the final step of severing the bonds of that state with her sister states in the Union, Anderson busied himself strengthening the defenses of both Fort Moultrie, which he had garrisoned, and Fort Sumter, which was also under his command. His force was a small one. It consisted of nine officers, 55 artillerymen, 15 musicians and 30 laborers—a total of 109, of which only 63 were combatants. With this little band he determined to defend the flag to which he had sworn allegiance and to maintain his post to the last.

Watchful of all approaches to Fort Moultrie, after December 11 no one was admitted within the works unless he was known to some officer of the garrison. His justification for this action was the fact that the South Carolinians were arming and it seemed almost a certainty that they intended to seize Forts Moultrie and Sumter and Castle Pinckney. On December 20 South Carolina adopted its Ordinance of Secession and the South Carolinians immediately began to act as though they were free citizens of another country. In fact, the Charleston papers, as an indication of the independence of their state, began announcing occurrences in the Northern states under the head of "foreign news." Soon volunteer troops began to pour into Charleston where their equipping and drilling began.

Anderson was well aware of the danger and delicacy of his position. In a private letter which he wrote on December 24 he set forth the precarious nature of his position—with a garrison of only 60 men, in an aged fortress, the walls of which were only 14 feet high and within a hundred yards of sandhills which commanded the position and afforded good cover for sharpshooters to pick off his gunners, he confessed that "if attacked in force by any one but a simpleton, there is scarce a possibility of our being able to hold out long enough for our friends to come to our succor."

Fort Sumter in Charleston Harbor

Gen. Winfield Scott, commander-in-chief of the United States army, was also aware of the situation and declared that the fort could be taken by 500 men in 24 hours. Both President Buchanan and John B. Floyd, secretary of war, were in a state of uncertainty as to what course to pursue in this crisis.

Their instructions to Anderson were to "carefully avoid any act which would needlessly provoke aggression and not, without necessity, to take any position that could be construed into the assumption of a hostile attitude." They did, however, direct him to "hold possession of the forts in the harbor, and if attacked, you are to defend yourself to the last extremity. The smallness of your force will not permit you, perhaps, to occupy more than one of the three forts, but an attack on, or attempt to take possession of either of them, will be regarded as an act of hostility, and you may then put your command into either of them which you may deem most proper to increase its power of resistance. You are also authorized to take similar steps whenever you have tangible evidence of a design to proceed to a hostile act."

It was that last sentence in his instructions which gave Anderson the necessary latitude for making the move which he did. According to a contemporary historian: "Christmas day dawned upon Major Anderson under these circumstances and bound by these instructions. It may be supposed that he was not in a festive mood; but, whatever his apprehensions or his purposes, he kept them to himself. . . .

"During the day, the wives and children of the troops were sent away from the fort on the plea that, as an attack might be made upon it, their removal was necessary. Three small schooners were hired, and the few inhabitants of Sullivan's Island saw them loaded, as they thought, with beds, furniture, trunks and other luggage of that kind.

"About nine o'clock in the evening, the men were ordered to hold themselves in marching order, with knapsacks packed, ready to move at a moment's notice. No one seemed to know the reason for the movement, and probably no one but Major Anderson himself and his next in command knew their destination. The little garrison was paraded, inspected and then embarked on boats which headed for Fort Sumter.

"The schooners had taken, or then took, all the provisions, garrison furniture and munitions of war which could be carried away on such short notice, and with such slender means of transportation—enough to enable fourscore men to sustain and defend themselves in a strong, sea-girt fortress for a long time. What could not be carried away was destroyed. Not a keg of powder or a cartridge was left in the magazine; the small arms and military supplies of all kinds were removed; the guns were spiked, the gun-carriages burned, and the guns thus dismounted; partly-finished additions and alterations of the work were destroyed; the flag-staff was cut down; and nothing, in fact, was left unharmed but the round shot which were too heavy to carry off, and which the spiking and dismounting of the guns had made useless.

A Fort Moultrie Cannon.
(Fort Sumter in the Distance.)

"The dawn saw Major Anderson safely established with his command in Fort Sumter, secure from immediate attack, though Fort Moultrie was occupied only by a corporal's guard, left there to complete the work of destruction. He saw what a responsibility he had assumed, and fully appreciated the delicacy and the importance of the trust committed to him. Perhaps, if he could have looked forward for three months and foreseen all the consequences of his act during that period, he would have remained at Fort Moultrie until summoned to yield by a force too great for him to resist, or until he received orders to yield his post."

Although Anderson and his men must have realized the extreme gravity of the situation in which this move had placed them, this Christmas season was probably a happier one than they or any of their fellow-Americans, both North and South, were to know for the next four years. Despite the fact that South Carolina had seceded from the Union and that other southern states were ready to follow her lead, there was still the possibility that the threatened war might be averted. No doubt, in many a church and in many a home, both North and South, during that Christmas season 75 years ago, there were offered up prayers that the spirit of "peace on earth, good will to men" would prevail and save the nation from the horrors of a civil conflict.

But forces which no one seemingly could control were at work in both the North and the South to push both sections forward to the holocaust and in April, 1861, the decisive step was taken. It was taken at Fort Sumter and it was the logical result of the events of that fateful Christmas night 75 years ago. Gen. P. T. Beauregard, commander of the Confederate forces in Charleston, called upon Major Anderson to surrender Fort Sumter. Anderson refused and the Southern batteries opened fire. By the time another Christmas had come hundreds of American boys had died and thousands more were to die before the Christmas bells were to ring out again their message of peace and good-will over a reunited nation.

PIRATE TREASURE

PIECES of eight!

Two million dollars worth!

And their finder was a boy, a bare-foot beach-comber, who was scooping a hole in the sand!

The day was clear but cold. The early spring sun shone in a turquoise sky, but the wind across the water was chilly. The boy shivered. He had some driftwood that he had gathered along the beach, and a piece of goat meat from one of the wild goats that lived on the island, Santa Margarita, where the boy also lived. He was hungry. Well, he would dig a little pit, make a fire in it and roast the meat. He was used to that.

The wind sang about him as he began to scoop out the sand. It may have been telling him what lay below, but if it did he could not understand. He worked apathetically. Only the desire for food and warmth urged him to labor, and this urge was not very strong.

And, then—and then his fingers touched something. Perhaps it was a buried log, and if he dug it out and dried it there would be more fuel. He began to try to uncover the thing.

No, it was not wood, but iron. Part of an old ship, perhaps, but at any rate he would dig it out and see what it was.

A box! What could be in it? Curiously now began to sting him into activity. He managed to clear the top and part of the sides. Now, maybe, he could lift it out.

But he might as well have tried to pull up the center of the earth. The iron chest would not budge, for all his effort. He tugged until he knew that he could not move it.

It was too bad! Here he wanted to see it all by himself, and gaze on whatever it might contain, alone. And if it proved to be empty, there would be no one near to laugh at him. But it was no use; he was compelled to go and get help.

His elder brother came, prepared to show his muscle, but the iron chest seemed rooted in the ground. His father came, and the three tried their best to move the stubborn weight. His uncle came, and the neighbors, and at last nine men stood about the chest, trying to draw it out of the hole in the beach.

At last it moved—it slowly and reluctantly began to leave the place where it had lain so long. Rusty and dirty, it lay on the sand, and the men crowded closer to pry up the cover. The boy pushed near, too. After all, he was the one who had found the long-sought treasure.

Suddenly a great cry frightened the birds—a cry uttered by ten throats at once, as the lid fell back and the contents of the mysterious chest caught the light. Gold! Golden coins, doubloons, piles of pieces of eight—pirate gold!

Pirates? Certainly! Cocos Island lay to the south, and everyone knew that pirates had buried treasure there. Why, expeditions were always sailing to Cocos, and people dug and sweated and cursed and found nothing. And this was why—they had searched the wrong island!

If the story could be ended there, it would be romantic enough. But now comes a second chapter which changes everything about, spoils the romance, but adds an element of mystery.

Under Mexican laws, the government is entitled to 25 per cent of treasure found on its land. Who should know better, then, than the governor of Lower California what treasure was found, and by whom? But he tells a different story entirely, and to the effect that last December lumber and construction steel were found on Santa Margarita. Not treasure in a chest, but the materials for building formed the astonishing find. And just as stories gain and grow by repetition elsewhere in the world, so this one was changed by oral transmutation, steel became an iron chest, lumber was transformed into golden coins, and, of course, no pirates' treasure should ever be worth less than a million or so!

So much for the chest of gold. But a mystery remains: who brought the building materials to Santa Margarita? And why? That is the question to which, so far, we do not know the answer.

BLASTED HOPES

NOT many months ago New York state troopers were told of strange sounds coming from Letter Rock mountain, up the Hudson river in Palisades Interstate park. Investigating the source of the sounds, which were said to rumble in the manner of thunder, the troopers found four small men, who had been blasting a large hole in the mountainside.

Everyone who has read Washington Irving's stories recalls his tales of old New York, in which queer little men and buried treasure figured largely. It must have seemed entirely in keeping with these legends when the men confessed that they were hunting for buried treasure. The man who hired them, whose identity was not known, had found an old map in the Morgan library, and he evidently took it so seriously that he was willing to blast away the mountainside in hopes of finding the treasure.

NO MARINE ANIMAL IS SAFE FROM THE TERRIBLE SAWFISH

A sawfish is an oceanic shark standing in structure between the true sharks and the rays, as a member of the family Pristidae, in which four or five species are grouped. Some of these strange and terrific creatures grow to a length of 20 feet, and saws six feet long and 12 inches wide are not uncommon in museums. In general form this fish is slender and sharklike with extraordinary swimming power due to a full supply of strong fins, notably that of the tail; and it is armed with a formidable weapon. The head is flat and its jaws are continued forward in a narrow but strong blunt projection of cartilaginous rods (the rostrum), covered with tough hide, which is nearly a third as long as the body, and the edges of which are studded along each side with firmly-fixed bony teeth. Some South sea savages imitated it exactly in making their cruel, flat-bladed spearheads, set with sharks' teeth. Flesh-hungry and ferocious in its disposition and predatory habits, this bandit rushes into a group of fishes, or at anything eatable it may meet, and, striking right and left "it cuts and slashes, tearing off pieces of flesh or ripping open the abdomen of its opponent." These bloody fragments are then seized by the mouth on the underside of the head and greedily swallowed whole. No marine animal is too big to be safe from attack, and this fish is by far the worst enemy of whales, which it fearfully lacerates and sometimes kills.

Sawfishes abound in the tropics, but often follow the Gulf stream, the Japanese current, and other relatively warm waters far from the equator. They are most numerous, however, near shores and often ascend large rivers as the lower Mississippi, and one species inhabits Lake Nicaragua. They do not produce eggs, as is the rule among both sharks and rays, but bring forth their young alive. Sawfish are taken by fishermen for the value of their rough skin.

No Doubt 1-Word Speech Received Most Applause

What is claimed to be the record for parliamentary brevity was a speech made recently in the Danish Lanting, in Copenhagen. Faroe Islands were the subject of debate, and after one speaker had stated his view, Burgomaster Goskesen advanced to the tribune, waited until he had attracted the house's attention, and uttered the one word "Ligesaa," meaning "the same."

Then he bowed to the speaker and sat down.

MOKENA

Mrs. N. F. Heiman attended the funeral of a relative in Chicago Heights, Monday morning.

Mrs. Sadie Barber of Lynn Haven, Florida, arrived in Mokena Sunday morning to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Reither which was held Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Eleanor Ferguson, teacher in the Mokena public school entertained the other teachers at dinner in her home in Joliet Saturday evening.

Mrs. Geo. F. Wannemacher under went a major operation in Silver Cross hospital Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schmidt entertained a few friends in their home Sunday evening at a Pinochle party.

Miss Doig's room is very attractively decorated with Christmas decorations. Many pictures and silver icicles add to the Christmas atmosphere. Wreaths that the children made are in the windows. A Christmas scene is on the black board and under this is a manger scene. The sand table is unique with artificial snow, doll house, pine trees, and Santa with his reindeers.

John Mau and Willard Barenz are absent from school because of Scarlet Fever in their homes.

Miss Doig's room sold 500 Christmas seals. Norman Olson and George Merrick sold the most.

In Mrs. Ferguson's room the windows are also decorated with tinsel and wreaths. In front of the room are large Christmas scenes. In the back is a scene of a fireplace, and Christmas tree drawn in colored chalk by Gordon Clevenger.

Donald Morgan has moved to Joliet.

Edwin Mau is absent because of Scarlet Fever in his home.

The children in the intermediate room are very busy studying for a play they are giving at Christmas time.

The Junior Hi pupils have moved to the gym because the W. P. A. workers are repainting their room.

Roy Homerding is not attending classes in Miss Krusemark's room because of scarlet fever.

Charles Hostert was absent from school Monday.

Eva Jennings has returned to the high school classes after a few days.

Virginia Brown was a visitor in the high school room last Wednesday.

FEATURES

If any one whose pinochle deck was used at the last P. T. A. card party has found the King of Spades missing, they can have the same by reporting the loss to Mr. Dunn.

Last Friday the high school presented the assembly program. The pupils represented the Gink Family. Those taking part were Howard Strassenburg, Howard Jungles, Ada Semmler, Russell Nelson, Julia Mill-sap, Eileen Walsh, June Schoeneck, Donald Kohl, Grace Warning, Blenda Monson and Bernice Hostert.

SPORTS

Mokena played Monee at Monee last Friday night. The high school won their fourth consecutive game but the grade lost. This was the first game they lost and the score was 24-8. The H. S. won by a score of 45-43.

Mokena plays Manhattan here Friday December 13! Lets give the home team plenty of backing and all turn out to this game.

NEW LENOX

Mrs. Howard Ayres entertained the Ladies Aid of the M. E. church at their December meeting. Final reports of the bazaar were given. A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The hostesses were Mrs. Harlow Gougar and Mrs. Flossie Corp.

A Mortgage
On Our Future

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

During the past few months America has established another record.

It is a new high in government spending, in days of peace.

This is revealed in the recent report of the United States Treasury Department showing that since the beginning of the present fiscal year, on July 1, our Federal expenditures have surpassed the $3,000,000,000 mark. By June 30, (when the fiscal year ends) expenditures are expected to exceed $10,000,000,000. Only in war times have such records been surpassed.

Where are all those billions coming from?

Not current income! That can meet only about half the bill. The remainder becomes part of the growing Federal Deficit which the people must pay in taxes, direct and indirect, through the years to come.

LIBERAL CLERGYMEN

New Haven, Conn.—Two months ago President Roosevelt asked "counsel and advice" from the country's clergymen through a questionnaire addressed by the National Religion and Labor Foundation to 100,452 clergymen of all creeds. The President now has his answers. More than two-thirds favor old-age pensions and child labor control. The same percentage said they would write and preach free speech, free assembly and free press; 313 said they had lost their jobs for doing this. Forty per cent promised to get acquainted with local labor union officials. About half promised to support the right to strike, picket and hold mass meetings; 8 per cent said they would join a picket line themselves and 11 per cent promised to lend their churches for strike meetings.

The Musical Ensemble gave a pin-ochle party Tuesday night in the school. Prizes were awarded. Refreshments were served. The quilt which the band has sold tickets for was awarded to Mrs. Arian Woodman.

V.F.W.
News

Wm. Martin Post No. 725

On January 3, 1936 a new session of Congress meets. On that very day the wheels of legislation will start to grind on another so-called "bonus" bill.

The present fight for immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates was actually launched by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States in 1924 when this organization filed its protest in Washington against a proposed "tombstone" bonus and urged Congress to pay its debt to the veteran in cash on the same basis that this government discharged its wartime obligations to others.

Congress passed a "bonus" bill at the last session. This bill sponsored by the V. F. W. passed the House and the Senate. It was then vetoed by the President. Despite the President's personal appearance and appeal for a veto, the bill was passed over his veto by the House. This measure was finally defeated in the Senate by a veto which upheld the President's veto. There will be no such action in Congress at the new session. If there has been any change in the attitude of the President toward the so-called "bonus" it is not known in Washington. But it is widely known that there will be enough votes in the Senate at the new session to pass any so-called "bonus" bill over a possible veto by the President.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars at New Orleans reaffirmed its demand for the immediate cash payment of the "bonus". The American Legion Post at its national convention in St. Louis did likewise. There is no longer any difference between these two organizations on the principle of a plan for justice to the Veterans of the World War.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. urge all veterans and their friends to write or wire your Congressman and your Senators immediately, demanding their support of legislation in behalf of cash payment of adjusted service certificates a measure that will administer prompt and humane relief to the people as a whole who are suffering in the grip of the worst economic crisis this nation has ever known.

Rep. Conventions

Do you remember way back in 1884 when Illinois was shouting for Black Jack Logan for president? With the help of the G. A. R. they were unable to push the nomination over and finally got him the second nomination. Again in 1920 they lost their fight for Gov. Lowden. I predict that they will lose their fight for Knox. Twenty years ago they nominated Hughes and if he had listened to the leaders of his party Mr. Hughes stood good chances of being elected, but he let party issues alone with the result that he kept us out of war. Now have the Republicans learned their lesson?
Will they make the fight on the last Republican administration? Will it be on Roosevelt giving the Roosevelt velts the chance to come back with the cry he has fed us?

Roosevelt is stronger today than he was a year ago. Where he has lost one vote out of his party he has gained 2 out of the other party that business has kicked while the increase has been so slow and quiet as not to be noticed by us yet by watching things we can see a steady movement upward. See the railroads. Of course there are those who will not acknowledge anything for the better. They think that is playing politics. Hoover said that Coolidge got us in this mess. I voted for Coolidge but I would not dishonor myself by voting for Hoover.

So far I have not seen any candidate that has any improvement on Roosevelt.
There is a lot of shouting against Roosevelt but not one of the 10 or 12 candidates can come out with a real safe and sound platform. I am sorry.
I want to see some good man come out but I am afraid that good men are a thing of the past.

Blue Island Lions

Sponsor Barn Dance

The WLS barn dance show sponsored by the Blue Island Lions Club played to a full house at its opening performance on Wednesday night in the Whittier gym, Vermont street and Maple avenue, Blue Island.

More than 200 local people are in the cast and the stage is decorated with harnesses, pitchforks, 200 bales of hay, etc., and really resembles the proverbial hayloft. The talent is plentiful and the members were well received with the audience enjoying the full two hours of entertainment.

The show will continue thruout the week with the final curtain
Saturday night. An unusual added attraction "Tom Turkey" which is a surprise number, will be a feature on the Friday and Saturday shows.

TINLEY PARK

The English M. E. Ladies Aid met last Wednesday afternoon in the Cristie home in the south subdivision. They were royally entertained and Mrs. Cristie sang a "Solow", which was fitting for the Christmas season.

The English M. E. Sunday School is preparing a program for Xmas. The Tinley Park Woman's Club went to Oak Forest last Wednesday morning to give the old people who are in the Infirmary, a Xmas party. The ladies took with them jelly, lump sugar, old magazines, etc. and gave them to the old people.

Mr. and Mrs. Elkaugh Asher and children of Fennville, Mich., spent a week in the J. S. Oulman home visiting with Mrs. Asher's parents. They brought with them a 13-pound turkey and pumpkins for the dinner on Thanksgiving day. The Misses Oulmans of Chicago joined them on that day for dinner.

Mrs. Henry Wyman and family who have been ill with bad colds, are improving.

Most of those who are on relief in Tinley Park are working on projects at Blue Island and other towns.

Mrs. Leo Price is on a nursing case in Cicero.

The Golden Needle Club met last Saturday with Miss Mildred Flannery and finished the sewing for the Lake Bluff Orphanage. For Christmas. Anyone wishing to donate old clothing, yarn or jelly, canned fruit for the Deaconess Orphanage at Lake Bluff may leave them at the parsonage no later than Dec. 14th as on that day the things gathered will be shipped to Lake Bluff.

new car during the winter, but has been caused by an entirely normal desire on their part to wait for the new models. This change overcomes the necessity for delayed buying.

Not only will purchasers of 1936 models find them a paying investment in added winter comfort and economy of operation, but they will avoid the delay they have experienced in securing delivery of cars during the spring selling season. The change in announcement date should be beneficial to the industry, and its employees, and enable us to give a better product and better service to the buying public.

There has not been much change in the quoted price of automobiles for the year 1936 as compared with 1935, but as in the past, the industry has made many improvements in the products, absorbed the differences in cost and even in many cases made a nominal downward revision in the list prices. This is the history of progress within the automotive industry and a practice that has been followed for many years. It accounts for the extremely high value that is offered by every producer today at prices within the reach of the person with even moderate means. The principal changes offered by the industry for 1936 are those that add materially to the comfort of the driver and passengers and also give the car owner the benefit of greater economy in operation.

The outlook for 1936 is very gratifying. It is recognized that each year since 1932 has shown a substantial increase in volume, and that some year we must expect a leveling-off process. 1936 is also Presidential election year, usually accompanied by some hesitation in buying. However, improvement in basic business conditions is general in every part of the United States, and there can be no doubt that 1936 will again show an increase in volume in the automotive industry.

If this is true, and I believe it to be true, it will have a very constructive effect upon business conditions generally.

Definite Objective In Automotive Industry

By M. E. COYLE
President and General Manager
Chevrolet Motor Co.

There is a very definite objective behind the early announcement of 1936 models by the automotive industry. It is for the purpose of spreading employment more evenly throughout the entire year rather than to have it concentrated as in the past, in the early spring months. The particular advantage will be the increase in employment during the winter months when work is slack and expenses are high.

There is reason to believe this change in announcement date may accomplish the desired result. Since the advent of the closed body with easily controlled ventilation, efficient heaters, powerful electric starters, permanent antifreeze, special winter lubricants and the road clearing operations maintained on state highways and city streets, most of the inconveniences of winter driving have been eliminated.

The fact that new car buy has always lagged in the closing months of each year has not been because the public did not want to drive a

what
Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Wales' Fancy Pants.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—All is excitement in London. The prince of Wales has adopted a new style in trouserings called the "straight outline."

With no desire to be morbid, I've gone into the fascinating details. I glean from the cablegrams that they touch the wearer in but one place, and only then if his royal highness is sitting down. When walking, he has to take two steps while the trousers are taking one. It's as though Slim Summerville swiped my things and was trying to escape with the goods on. I shall not follow the royal example. As a snappy dresser I never seem to get anywhere, somehow. George Ade once said no matter what I put on I still looked like Paducah, Ky., and when I read what the well-dressed man will wear I sorrowfully admit there's nothing correct about me except my back collar button and I'm not so sure about that. It's one of those plain bone ones—nothing flashy.

So I shall continue to stick to the garments enclosing me at the moment. They are, as you might say, my pre-depression pants. In youth they sheltered me; I'll not desert them now. Besides, I might be arrested.

Hollywood Hermits.

IF YOU'VE been to Movieland, you've seen our fur-bearing hermits. As true recluses, these gentlemen have the innate desire to avoid being conspicuous, which is ever characteristic of Hollywood. So they march the principal streets all day, with their long hair and their ditto whiskers waving in the climate, and wearing as few clothes as the law allows—and out here we allow few indeed.

There is a single member of the group who's different. He's just as woolly as the others, but he doesn't parade up and down. Nor will he tell you his name or the address of his cave, or where he came from or where he's going. Some think he has a secret past. But I think he has a great ambition.

It's my idea he wants to go down in history as the one who was not commissioned a colonel on the staff of the governor of Kentucky.

The Legacy of Youth.

IN THE brave days before '28 the future of an ambitious young graduate was assured. He sold bonds. Statistics show there was a salesman for every bond. Shortly thereafter, any fellow who owned a bond was his own salesman.

I still have some very beautiful ones which I'd like to swap for a pair of moss-agate cuff buttons, a ukulele, a collection of postage stamps or what have you?

Then followed the dreary years when the youth with a diploma had nowhere to head in—desperate, hopeless years. But now—now he needn't worry any more about a career. It's all fixed. He can step out of college right into a CCC camp.

I am ashamed—trying to be funny over a most grim tragedy. It doesn't matter about our generation, the mad architects of this disaster. We're too numbed by blows, some of us, to start over; too old, some of us, even to try; too stupid to admit that, by futile war, by speculation, by crazed extravagance, we laid this burden upon our children and our children's children.

We have sowed in folly; they must reap the bitter grain.

The Return of Prosperity.

GOOD times are certainly coming back—at least to the fur business. I hear prices are so high that only the wealthier minks can afford their own skins; the rest of them will go through the winter wearing dyed rabbit.

I went to a party and nearly every woman there was up to her ears in ermine or chinchilla or silver fox or some other very exclusive peltry. There was one large lady who had on at least three kinds of expensive wild animals. If somebody had left the door open, her wrap would have stolen right back to the zoo.

It's fine prosperity is returning. Wouldn't it be grand if, instead of being visited on a favored few, it could be passed around?

Crooning to Oysters.

THE professional crooner has found his musical soul-mate. It's our famous Pacific coast bi-valve, that winsome creature which is about the size of a suspender button.

A Seattle judge experimented on the harmonic affinities of shell fish. He didn't get anywhere with the clam, clams being proverbially dumb, but, working on our cunning little naive oyster, he first established its natural vibration, then found a note to correspond. Do that, and an oyster opens right up.

"They open easiest," says the discoverer, "when crooners are performing."

Now let's establish what form of animal life responds spiritually to a columnist.

LAST CHANCE to try GAS HEAT AT OUR EXPENSE

FREE TRIAL OFFER ENDS
DECEMBER 21, 1935

Thousands of satisfied users prove value. Gas Heat no longer on trial. To give everyone an opportunity to install it at our expense we are making this announcement. Act quickly.

TWO heating seasons ago, intrigued by the thought of constant, comfortable heat without the dirt and discomfort of old-fashioned heating methods, thousands took advantage of an offer to try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. Today these thousands of satisfied users have more than proved gas heat's worth. They have shown beyond all doubt that gas is the ideal fuel for heating the home. Our trial offer has served its purpose—to acquaint these users with gas. Therefore, the free trial offer will be discontinued on December 21, 1935.

If you haven't yet done so, we want you, without investing one cent for equipment, to learn as these thousands of others have done, what a marvelous thing gas heat is. But you'll have to act NOW. Here's what we'll do. We'll install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler entirely at our expense. You can try it for a month, two months or a year. While you are trying it you will have to pay only a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. Then, if at any time within the year, you would like to return to your former fuel we'll replace your former heating equipment in good order at our expense. But if you decide to keep gas heat, as these thousands of happy users did, the rental you have paid is applied on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act right away. Take advantage of this free trial offer before it's too late. You have only until December 21, 1935, before the offer is withdrawn. Simply call your nearest gas company office for complete details and for free estimate of what it will cost to heat your home the modern way—with gas.

DO THIS NOW

To try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment, call your nearest Public Service Company office today for complete details. This offer is good only until December 21, 1935.

SYNOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the airways emergency station. In it are Burton Ramill, millionaire mining magnate; his daughter, Lilith; and Vivian Huxby, pilot and mining engineer. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector, the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to his samples of platinum-bearing ore as nearly "worthless." Lilith Ramill, product of the jazz age, plainly shows contempt for Garth. Through Garth's guidance the plane soon reaches the claim site. Huxby and Ramill, after making several tests, assure Garth his claim is nearly valueless, but to "encourage" young prospectors they are willing to take a chance in investing a small amount. Sensing treachery ahead, Garth secretly removes a part from the motor of the plane. Huxby and Lilith taunt Garth, but their tone soon changes when they try to start the plane. Returning to shore they try to force Garth to give up the missing part. Garth manages to set the monoplane adrift and the current carries it over the falls. He points out that he is their only hope in guiding them out of the wilderness. Garth begins the work of preparing for the long journey. He insists that the others help. Ramill and his daughter must be hardened for the hardships ahead in their trek to the outpost on the Mackenzie. Garth experiences difficulties in getting his companions into line.

Though Garth had no pad, he stood up with the moose quarter on his back and lifted his end of the pole to his shoulder. But he was accustomed to packing. He bore the meat on his pack-board and his half of the two quarters on the pole with as little difficulty as Huxby toted the other end of the pole.

When they reached the camp Miss Ramill and her father were out gathering wood. At one end of the fire, thick smoke was rising from green sticks and leaves; at the other end, the pan of sliced muffle was boiling hard. After he and Huxby had lifted the moose quarters upon the rack, Garth brought water in the aluminum pot and cooled down the stew to simmering heat. Miss Ramill had much to learn about the culinary art.

After the meal Garth glanced at the red after-glow of sunset.

"Mr. Ramill, the leanto and blanket are for you and your daughter. Huxby can take the lee side of the fire. I'll keep it going. Turn in whenever you please."

A yawn surprised Lilith Ramill into a mocking laugh. She turned to her swollen-faced fiancé.

"What a howling farce, Vivian! Can you imagine me going to roost at sunset, instead of sunrise?"

Huxby forced a smile and felt at a particular sore cluster of bites on the back of his neck. Mr. Ramill cast a wistful glance towards the leanto.

"I presume, Lilith, you will prefer not to share the hut with me. Perhaps I can manage out here beside the fire, like Vivian."

"No," Garth differed. "You'll sleep under that blanket until you have hardened into shape, and you'll turn in now. It's been a big day for you."

The girl bridled. "How about my wishes—and the proprieties?"

"We'll leave that to you," Garth replied. "If you consider it improper to share the blanket with your father, you're welcome to sit up and help me grain these moosehides."

Huxby stiffened. "None of your insolence! You'll treat Miss Ramill with utmost respect."

"The lady shall receive from me all the respect to which she shows herself entitled," Garth said. "Why not make it mutual, all around?"

Lilith Ramill was no less completely outmaneuvered than the engineer. She spoke to her father: "Well, I must say, Dad, if you're letting him order you around, I refuse to stay up and slave all night. Come on."

He crept after her into the brush leanto. Garth at once set to making more catgut. Huxby had gathered a thin padding of spruce tips and moss at the far side of the fire and lay down. Like the girl and her father, he soon fell asleep.

After finishing his first task, Garth tended the fire and added water to the simmering muffle stew. He next began graining the hair from the moose bull hide. He could have stretched out and gone to sleep no less readily than had the chechahocs. On the other hand, he was able to keep awake as long as he wished. He scraped steadily at the coarse moose hair, the while his ears drank in the voices of the Wild.

By the time the sun glared over the jagged crests on the northeast wall of the valley, Garth had the hair grained from both the moose hides. As he started to cut into the larger skin, Miss Ramill crawled from the leanto. She blinked and yawned, straightened her rumpled sports skirt, and sat down to lace her boots. He gave her a friendly good morning.

"Good? Puh!" she scoffed. "I feel like the morning after. Here I am flat. Not a drop of anything for a bracer; no bath; no clothes or face cream or lotions; no make-up! Not even a cigarette! Yet you have the face to gibe me about it!"

At that, he could not resist giving her the old quip: "Cheer up; the worst is yet to come."

She ignored it to point at the simmering muffle in the gold pan. "Look at that filthy mess; half full of ashes. If you had a spark of decency, you'd throw it out and warm me a pan of water for my face and hands."

He finished the cutting of a moccasins piece before he replied: "In the first place, I'm too busy performing needed work to act as lady's maid. In the second place, that muffle is not filthy. You'll say it's the most delicious aspic you ever tasted. About the rest, douse your head in the rill. That will give you a combined wash and bracer. If you wish a smoke, there's the fire. For cosmetics, I'll soon be making up a batch of grease and pitch mosquito dope. My final dose of frogite went on too thin to last long."

She looked her disgust. "Grease and pitch! When I have a headnet?"

"Soon as we start traveling through brush it's a question which will go first, your net or your stockings. Dope doesn't snag on branches, and you'll find it a better cosmetic than rouge and powder."

"Ugh! If I use your nasty dope at all, it will be on my legs."

"No go. You'll be scraping against rocks and running upon snags. Won't have any knees left if you try the Highland style. How about those lynx skins for leggings, along with moose moccasins?"

For the first time since they had met, the girl gave him a genuinely friendly smile. "That's decent of you, Alan. How soon can you make them?"

"Cut me a steak off that nearest leg of moose. While you're cooking it, I'll see what can be done."

When she returned the knife and started to broil the great slab of meat she had sliced off, he laid out the pair of lynx skins. A few knife strokes cut off the great hair-padded paws and slit the legs into thongs. When the girl brought him his broiled moose steak, he showed her how to wrap a skin around each leg like a high-topped legging, tying it with the crossed thongs.

"There you are, Miss Ramill. It's a pair of leggings such as our ancestors wore when they pirated the high seas in viking ships and sailed up the Thames with Hengist and Horsa."

Huxby sat up, blinking. The thin shake-down of moss and spruce tips had done little to soften the stony ground. He rubbed his stiffened back and hips. "Confound those rocks!"

The engineer looked at the partly eaten steak in Garth's hand. "How about breakfast?"

"Help yourself to all you want. Along with your own, you might broil steaks for Miss Ramill and her father. Miss Ramill is about to take a lesson in sewing. She will soon need a pair of moccasins."

The last remark checked the girl's intended refusal. While Huxby suddenly cut the three steaks and started to cook them, she carried out Garth's suggestion to grease her lynx skins with a chunk of fat.

When Garth finished his meal, he threaded a needle with smoked catgut and showed the girl how to sew the thick moosehide. Holes punched with the awl made the work fairly easy. Within a few minutes she caught the knack of handling the awl and needle. Though her stitches were irregular, they promised to hold. He cut out the mate of the first moccasin, and another pair smaller in size.

Mr. Ramill crawled from the leanto, stiff, hungry and irritable. But sleep and the open air had whetted all appetites. As with the broiled liver, the three chechahocs—millionaire, mining engineer and fastidious heiress—went at the hot meat with fingers and teeth. They were down to bedrock—to the fundamentals of living. All the elegancies of civilized eating were absent, even the supposed necessities—forks, plates, seasonings. Yet the essentials remained. They were hungry, and here was food. It was neither as tender nor as savory as had been the liver. None the less, it was food.

At the end of the meal, Garth said that the first need was to fetch in the forelegs of moose. Miss Ramill rose with her father and Huxby.

"Sorry," Garth told her. "Your father needs all the walking he can get. Someone must stay to mind the fire. I might mention there's a shallow rock pool a little way along the bank, beyond those alders. You'd find the water pleasantly warm for a dip."

"Really? That's not so bad."

"Yes. Only be sure to keep the fire going. It will hold off the wolves and wolverines."

Huxby took Ramill's arm and started off with him after Garth. They kept in the rear all the way to the muskew swamp.

This time, instead of lynx mates, a family of wolves were feasting on the moose meat. As sight of the men, the whole family bristled and growled but started a slow retreat.

"Shoot, Garth!" urged Mr. Ramill. "They're making off."

"Quite all right," Garth replied. "Good thing they're gorged. I might have had to waste cartridges to get rid of them. What I'd like to know is why they chose this solid meat, instead of the offal."

As if in answer to the question, a snarling growl far deeper than that of the wolves came from the border of the muskew where Garth had killed the bull moose. Up out of the thicket reared a huge gray head. Massive forelegs stroked apart the willow stems with chisel-like claws eight inches or more long.

It was a grizzly—a full-grown ursus horribilis. Garth believed the beast to be as large as those monsters of the same breed that ruled over the southern Rockies and the Sierras in the early days when Indians still were armed only with bows, and the few white hunters carried only muzzle-loading flintlocks.

The ears of the great she-bear were flattened back. Her little pig eyes glared red. The monstrous jaws gaped to let out a roar of defiance that shook the solid ground.

"Good G—d!" Mr. Ramill gasped. "A—bear!"

Huxby gripped Garth's shoulder. "Shoot, d—n you! Shoot, or give me that rifle!"

"Shut up," Garth ordered him. "That roar is only a warning. She'll not charge if we mind our own affairs. You and Mr. Ramill take hold of that nearest urn leg and start off quietly. Don't hurry and don't run."

The cool certainty of Garth's tone compelled belief and obedience even from Huxby. Mr. Ramill was already reaching up for one of the two moose legs that had not been pulled down by the wolves. The engineer hastily turned to help him. As they started off, Garth took the other unmangled leg on his shoulder and sauntered after them.

The grizzly mother had not repeated her roar. Had they run or given any sign of hostility, she would have charged. As it was, she stood, an enormous quivering mass of curiosity, watching their quiet retreat. Her jaws had closed their ferocious yaw, and her ears were no longer flattened back.

Garth's gray eyes twinkled as he glanced back over his shoulder at the huge beast. He could not have asked for a better bugaboo to make his companions behave. Safe out of her sight, he told the two to halt and get the moose leg on a tote-pole. Huxby at once started to curse him for not shooting.

"Go try it yourself," Garth replied, and when Huxby drew away from the offered rifle, he nodded approval. "You are wise not to attack a she-grizzly with cubs."

Spurred on no doubt by the knowledge of that gray monster behind him, Mr. Ramill managed to hold up his end of the tote-pole all the way to camp. There he sank down, purple-faced, wheezing that the exertion had killed him.

His daughter sat by the fire brooding. Though refreshed by her bath in the warm pool, she had begun to feel the craving for drink and tobacco. She had done little stitching on the moccasins. But she lived to horrified alertness when Huxby told about the grizzly.

Garth forestalled an outburst of hysterics. "Keep cool. The old lady will let us alone of we keep clear of her cubs. Keep up the fire, and she will shy clear of you. She doesn't fancy fire. Burnt her paws trying to rob me of a roasting porcupine."

A look at the gold pan showed Garth that the moose muffle had begun to dissolve. He cooled some of the gelatinous broth in the small pot. Mr. Ramill not only gulped down the drink. He smacked his lips and asked for more. At that, both Huxby and the girl were stirred to try the rich drink.

Garth was glad to have all three take their fill of the savory, highly nourishing dish. He knew what was coming. He asked only that the pan be refilled to dissolve more of the muffle.

The three were accustomed to the free drinking of their kind. They had already begun to feel the lack of the usual cocktails, mealtime wines and between-meals whisky. This was aggravated by the lack of tobacco. To ease them as much as possible, he broiled lynx meat on a grating of willow stems, basting it with moose fat. The tender meat kept them occupied until the muffle broth soothed their jangled nerves.

There was a limit, however, to eating, and once its effect began to pass, their craving returned more intense than before. First Miss Ramill, then Huxby, and last of all Mr. Ramill began to make ironical remarks aimed at Garth. He ignored them for some time. The remarks become more offensively witty and sarcastic. He dropped the moccasins upon which he had been sewing, and picked up his rifle.

"I've had enough bitters and sour berries, thank you all. Feed them to yourselves for a while. I'll go get the sleep I missed last night while acting as guardian angel of your sweet slumbers."

CHAPTER V

Mate Woman.

Far up the tundra slope, above the trough of his platinum placer, Garth found a dry moss-bedded nook on the sunny side of a boulder. He lay down, pulled his hatbrim over his eyes, and let himself fall asleep.

A full eight hours later the sun swung around its wide circle until the shadow of the rock fell upon Garth. Roused by the passing of the warm rays, he pushed back his hat and sat up. He came down to the camp. Mr. Ramill sat beside the fire between his daughter and Huxby. Two of three pouches that Garth had hidden under the moss in the leanto lay open before the men.

Miss Ramill was emptying the last contents of the sugar pouch into a pot of thick tea. She was first to see Garth's noiseless approach.

"Hail to the chief," she mocked. "My dear Mr. Garth, you are most fashionably late to dinner. Will you not join us in a cup of tea?"

Her father turned to eye the uninvited guest with a shade of uneasiness. "You see we found what you were holding out on us, Garth. It's the only trick you failed to put over."

Huxby said nothing. He tensed, ready to spring up and fight.

Finland's National Bath

Is Worth Talking About

In some country districts of Finland, both sexes frequently share the same vapor bath, for preparing the "sauna," as it is called, is an arduous task and the steam for one is enough for several people, according to a correspondent in the Detroit News.

All afternoon the housewife is kept busy heating great stones in the bath house oven. Then when the bathers—or bathers, as the case may be—are ready, she throws water over the rocks, so causing the room to fill with clouds of hot steam.

Wishing to make the most of opportunity, Finnish bathers stay on a platform near the roof, where the hottest steam collects. Once perspiration sets in, someone rubs the bather's back with a branch of birch leaves. The aroma from these is quite pleasant and fills the bath house.

After they have steamed well, the bathers like to cool off by taking a dip in one of Finland's many lakes. If there is none nearby, they must be satisfied with a cold shower, or in winter a hurried roll in a snow bank. The Finns are so fond of their steam baths that farmers often build their bath houses before constructing their home, and all the large cities have public bath houses.

Drowning Persons

It is a common belief that drowning persons rise three times, but according to the United States public health service, it has no scientific basis. Many drowning persons do not come to the surface at all after their first submergence. When a person finds himself drowning he naturally makes a frantic struggle to save his life. In doing so he draws water into his windpipe, which causes him to cough and expel air from his lungs. He then sinks. If all the air is expelled from his lungs he will not rise to the surface at all, especially if he is fully clothed. On the other hand, a drowning person who has some control over himself may sink and rise more than three times before his strength fails completely.

Pheasants Poor Mothers

While the incubator is a satisfactory method of hatching pheasants, the hen has many advantages in caring for the little ones. As mothers, pheasants in captivity leave much to be desired. Instead of worrying with a home and family, the real mothers spend their summer roaming in a large field and "looking pretty."

Lesson for December 15

EZRA TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:10; Nehemiah 8:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee. Psalm 119:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving Thanks for God's Book.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Giving Thanks for God's Book.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Studying the Bible Together.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Bible in National Life.

This lesson is a fine illustration of the rightful place of God's Word in the life of a nation. The only cure for national ills is a return to God and obedience to his Word.

I. The Teacher's Spiritual Condition (Ezra 7:10).

He prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, to do it, and to teach Israel the statutes and judgments.

II. The Word of God Read (Neh. 8:1-3).

1. The eager assembly (v. 1). The people gathered together and requested Ezra to bring the book of the law. God had touched their hearts, creating within them a yearning for his Word.

2. A representative assembly (v. 2). God's Word should be taught to all classes—men, women, and children. The Spirit of God can speak through his Word to the whole family sitting in the same pew.

3. An appreciative assembly (v. 3). So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired, although the lesson lasted for five or six hours. When people realize that God is speaking through his Word they will give attention.

III. The People's Attitude Toward God's Word (vv. 4-6).

1. Due reverence shown (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the law all the people stood up out of respect for God's Word.

2. They joined heartily in prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer they united in saying, "Amen, Amen," bowing their faces to the ground.

IV. God's Word Being Interpreted (vv. 7, 8).

The attitude of the people toward God's Word largely depends upon the minister. Proper dignity and solemnity should be manifested by the minister when reading the Holy Scriptures.

1. He stood up where the people could see him (v. 5).

2. He read distinctly (v. 8). The manner in which many read the Scriptures is greatly to their discredit.

3. He caused the people to understand (v. 8). The supreme business of the minister and teacher is to make the Word of God so plain that old and young can understand. The explanation should be clear and definite.

V. The Effect of Applying God's Word to the Life of the People (vv. 9-13).

1. Conviction of sin (v. 9). The divine method of convicting men of their sin is to have God's Word applied by the Holy Spirit. The Word of God is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12).

2. Weeping turned into joy (vv. 10-12). When sins have been perceived and confessed there is forgiveness. Continued mourning will not atone for past sins. Furthermore, it dishonors a pardoning God and even unfits the one for present tasks. Joy has a salutary effect upon one's entire being. "The joy of the Lord is your strength."

3. Blessings were shared with others (vv. 10-12). True joy manifests itself in giving to others. Pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (James 1:27). Godliness is not content with having a good time alone.

4. The people obeyed. From the reading of the Scriptures they found that the feast of the tabernacles had long been neglected. They kept this sacred feast in a way that had not been since the days of Joshua.

5. They separated themselves from the ungodly (13:1-3). As soon as they had heard the Word of God they separated themselves from the mixed multitude.

6. The house of worship was cleared and order restored (13:4-14). No nation or people can be strong which neglects the worship of the true God.

7. The Sabbath was restored (13:15-22). Israel had long violated the Sabbath. To ignore the essential law of the Sabbath is national suicide. Unnumbered evils followed in the wake of the desecration of God's holy day.

8. God's law of marriage restored (13:23-31). Some of those who had intermarried with the heathen were brought face to face with their sin. They separated themselves from their ungodly companions. God's favor cannot be enjoyed by those who live in disobedience to his Word.

PARENTS' NIGHT OUT

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

PEOPLE FEAR THE THINGS THEY DO NOT UNDERSTAND

The beautiful voice of a famous opera singer issuing forth in song caused a panic on board a ship!

Seriously—that is the content of a news dispatch from off the coast of Australia where an American ship carrying explorers was recently anchored. The voice of the singer came through a gramophone, and the audience among whom it caused a panic was composed of natives, who ran in terror from something that they did not understand.

It may seem incomprehensible to us that a beautiful voice should instill dislike or fear. Whatever the language of the song, you may say, is not beautiful singing beautiful to all who can hear—as the trilling of a bird must sound the same to men of any color and any language?

But the beauty of the voice is obscured by the fact that its source is something the natives do not understand. For that reason it is an object of suspicion—and of fear.

If we stop to think about it, it will surprise many of us to realize how much we have in common with those Australian natives in that we frequently refuse to see beauty in the things we do not understand. We too are suspicious and fearful of things we do not know. Most of the world's bigotry and prejudice springs from ignorance. And many of us, if we but realized it, create a spectacle no less foolish and unreasonable than those natives in panic over a beautiful voice issuing from a gramophone when we condemn without investigation, when we turn without consideration from things which are new, things which are different, ways to which we are not accustomed.

Oldest Fortification in the Western Hemisphere

Cuba's Castillo de la Fuerza (the Castle of the Armed Forces) is believed to be the oldest fortification in the Western Hemisphere. It stands at the foot of O'Reilly street in the oldest part of Havana. It was begun in 1538, thereby antedating Morro castle by about 50 years.

The history of La Fuerza goes back to the time of Hernando de Soto. It was there that Dona Isabel de Bobadilla, De Soto's wife, threw herself into the sea upon learning of her husband's death and his burial in the Mississippi river.

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

THE end of every day found her tired & out, nervous, often with headaches. But now, thanks to Nature's Remedy, work is fun again—she feels like going to a movie or dance any night. Millions have switched to this natural all-vegetable laxative. Contains no mineral or phenol derivatives. Instead, a balanced combination of laxative elements, provided by nature, that work naturally, pleasantly. Try an NR tonight. When you see how much better you feel you'll know why a vegetable corrective is best. Only 25c. at all druggists.

point of this program will be the Christmas Pageant: "The Bells of Bethlehem."

On Christmas Day there will be a German service at 9 a. m. and an English service at 10 a. m.

On Thursday, December 26, the Ladies' Aid Society in addition to the regular lunch are preparing a special Christmas play which will be presented at 8 p. m.

For Sylvester Eve the Young Peoples group of the church is preparing an elaborate four-hour program which as in former years will culminate in a midnight service.

The public is cordially invited to come and enjoy the good things prepared for them in these different programs.

Portrait of An American

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Who is the typical American? Just what is he like?

There seems to be doubt on these questions in the minds of many men in public office today. Much of our recent legislation suggests that they regard him as willing to swap his American birthright of independence and opportunity for the lifeless regimentation now imposed on certain populations abroad.

But there should be no such confusion. A portrait of the typical American was clearly drawn in the Bill of Rights of our Federal Constitution. Read it and you will see that he is a man who stands firmly for:

Freedom of religion, freedom of lawful speech, freedom of the press, freedom of peaceable assembly . . .

The right to be secure against unreasonable search and seizure, to be immune from governmental inquisition, to trial by jury in all civil as well as criminal cases . . .

The guarantee that he shall not be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law, and that he shall be protected in all these and other rights even against government itself.

In that insistence on definite rights and powers is reflected, I maintain, a true picture of the real American citizen—the man who works and earns and saves and on whose character and effort depends all the strength of our government.
It has stood unchanged for almost a century and a half. It remains as accurate today as when first drafted.

When our politicians get that picture clearly in mind we shall see fewer efforts to inject into our government the ideas of a regimented Europe—whose tragic effects we read daily in dispatches from across the sea.

America, our lawmakers should remember, is still full of Americans —sons and daughters of the hard-iest, most self-reliant breed of pioneers and liberty-lovers the world has ever seen. No one can take away their individual freedom—and make them like it. The Bill of Rights still remains our national portrait.
